

Get us back on the road, DJs tell Beeb

TWO Morecambe DJs are campaigning to bring the popular Radio One Roadshow back to the resort after it was axed by BBC bosses.

The pair were outraged when they heard that Morecambe was being pulled from the roadshow schedule and vowed to do something about it.

It was revealed this week that York was being substituted for Morecambe during the week that the roadshow visits the North West.

By ELAINE SINGLETON

DJ Pep, 22, and DJ Jay, 25, — real names P J Roberts and Jay Margerison — have both appeared on the roadshow in the last three years warming-up the audience.

Pep said it was unfair that Morecambe was being left out and he and his fellow DJ wanted to try to persuade the BBC to change its mind in time for next year.

He said: "We feel sorry for the youngsters who won't see a roadshow this year, or maybe never again."

Pep, who with Jay works at Crystal T's and the Carleton Inn in Morecambe, said everything was being taken away from the resort.

He said: "When we read that it wasn't coming to Morecambe, we thought that if we don't do something about it now it will stay away for ever.

"It has always brought in thousands of tourists for the day and they won't come if the roadshow isn't there.

"We want youngsters to write letters supporting the campaign to bring it back and we will take them down to London and kick up a fuss. We want to let Radio One know that Morecambe wants a roadshow."

If you want to help Pep and Jay's campaign, write to the Lancashire Evening Post, 29 Common Garden Street, Lancaster, Lancashire LA1 1XD, and say why you want the Radio One Roadshow back in Morecambe.

DJs Jay Margerison (left) and Peter Roberts — campaign to make BBC change its mind. Picture: GREG PIGGOT